The easy parts of this assignment were the jsp preparation of the HTML files. Another easy part was creating the JavaBean. I did have trouble with trying to identify what package to place the Servlet in. Another issue I had was understand what we needed to do in the Servlet. The directions seemed very confusing. I overcame all of this by dissecting each piece and attempted to provide the code for what's requested.